

Given a hashtable of size 4 and a hash function defined by $H(k) = k \bmod 4$. Assume that linear probing has been used as a strategy to resolve collisions. What values will be in the hash table after the following sequence of insertions, starting from an initially empty table

4,8,12,16

Answer:

0
1
2
3	